The Highlight of our General Military Training Program, 14 Jul 1968, was the awarding of trophies to the winning teams of the Athletic Program held during Annual Field Training '68.

A surprise trophy (donated by the participants) was presented to Captain Kenneth E. Gathright by LtCol Claude F. Heath for his tremendous efforts in planning and direction of the entire program.

Trophies with team captains' names inscribed were awarded to each team by Captain Gathright. They will remain on display on trophy shelves in the "Game Room" of the Club 149.

All individual members received money clips bearing emblems of their particular sport.

TSG Bernard H. McKay, Captain Gathright's most able assistant, received a portable radio from the team members.

200TH WEATHER SQUADRON PERSONNEL ATTEND METEOROLOGICAL SEMINAR

LtCol Thomas C. Council, Maj James P. Condaxis, Capt N. C. Williams Jr and 2Lt Richard DeAngelis, members of the 200th Weather Squadron at Langley AFB, recently attended the annual Air Reserve Forces Meteorological Seminar. The course sponsored jointly by Air Weather Service, the National Guard Bureau and the American Meteorological Society, to bring to the fore recent improvements in Meteorology - a field which now extends from the ocean surface to the far reaches of space.

The course featured renowned experts from the governmental, scientific, and industrial communities. Most of the program was held at the American Meteorological Society building across from the historic Boston Common - which now has a new look featuring the mini-skirt. You see, forecasters don't always have their eyes to the sky. Several side trips were made to such places as the USAF Cambridge Research Labs and the Sagamore Hill Radio Astronomy Observatory.

CAPSULE LAW
(An AFNS Feature)

When someone dies owing you money, the law calls for you to present your bill to his estate. Often the widow or another heir will pay the debts, although technically they are debts of the estate. Unless the heirs agree to pay, they as individuals owe you nothing.

A solvent estate will pay your claim; otherwise, your claim waits until "priority claims" are paid. Or you may have to take a pro rata partial payment along with other claimants if there is not enough money to pay all the claimants in full.

The law calls on the estate's executor to publish notice for creditors to make their claims against the estate within a certain time, usually six months or a year. If they do not, their claims are forever barred.

Claims must be in writing and verified often supported by a voucher. If the executor does not pay all the claim, the creditor may sue and let the court decide what is due.

The decedent's estate may have assets that are exempt from creditor's claims such as proceeds from life insurance or a homesteaded residence.

The law gives priority to a widow's allowance, to costs of administering the estate, to medical and funeral expenses, tax claims, and the like. General creditors come next.

Suppose the mailman delivers a necktie, a book, keyring tags or a phonograph record that was not ordered. Either with it, or by later mail, is a request for payment.

A recipient of unordered merchandise is under no obligation to return it; to acknowledge its receipt; to pay for it unless used; to give it particular care; or to keep beyond a reasonable time.

He is obligated to surrender the merchandise if called for in person by the shipper or his agent within a reasonable time. However storage charges may be demanded before surrendering the item. Paying for return of unsolicited items will likely result in future deliveries.

The best solution is to write "refused" across the face of the piece of mail and return it unopened to the mailman. No explanation is required. Such action normally results in the sender paying for return postage.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

The following speech was given by President Theodore Roosevelt on 17 March 1905 at the Friendly Sons of Saint Patrick Dinners, Delmonicos, New York City.

"And I want to say here, as I said and shall say again elsewhere, as I shall say again and again, that we must never forget that no amount of material wealth no amount of intellect, no artistic or scientific growth can avail anything to the nation which loses the elemental virtues. If the average man cannot work and fight, the race is in a poor way and it will not have, because it will not deserve, the respect of anyone.

Let us avoid, always, either as individuals or as a nation, brawling, speaking discourteously, or acting offensively toward others, but let us make it evident that we wish peace, not because we are weak, but because we think it right: and that while we do not intend to wrong anyone, we are perfectly competent to hold our own if anyone wrongs us....

Americanism is not a matter of creed or birthplace or descent. That man is the best American who has in him the American spirit, the American soul. Such a man fears not the strong and harms not the weak. He scorns what is base or cruel or dishonest. He looks beyond the accidents of occupation or social conditions and hails each of his fellow citizens as his brother, asking nothing save that each shall treat the other on his worth as a man, and that they shall all join together to do what in them lies for the uplifting of this mighty and vigorous people. The fate of the 20th Century will in no small degree, depend upon the type of citizenship developed on this continent. Surely, such a thought must thrill us with the resolute purpose so to bear ourselves that the name American shall stand as the symbol of just generous, and fearless treatment of all men and all nations. Let us be true to ourselves, for we cannot be false to any man".

A Guiding Hand

A few seasons ago one of the songs from a Broadway musical asked "What Are We Going to Do About the Younger Generation?" It was a catchy little tune with entertaining lyrics that just might have had more of a message to it than we gave it credit for.

Maybe a better way to phrase the title would be "What Are We Doing About the Younger Generation?" Have we fallen into the seemingly age-old habit of discussing the "younger generation" in terms of gloom, shaking our heads and then forgetting all about them until the next time we decide to criticize them?

More important, are we doing anything to make sure there are the opportunities, incentive and leadership the younger generation needs.

Servicemen and women have a tremendous chance to help guide and direct our younger generation, to help them learn to do things better, more successfully and more intelligently — and to help them have a youth they can look back on with pleasure.

Whether as a volunteer playground supervisor, coach, tutor, Boy or Girl Scout leader or working with the summer Youth Opportunity Program or Neighborhood Youth Corps, members of the Armed Forces can help equip the youth of our country to lead productive and responsible lives.

By volunteering our time to help in various programs, we can help mold today's youngsters into tomorrow's capable, conscientious citizens.

The future of our Nation rests in the hands of our young people. We can and should help see to it that those hands are strong and able. (AFPS)

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs is the only National League player who has won the Most Valuable Player award two years in a row. He claimed the title in 1958 and 1969.

The lowest round ever shot in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament is a 64. Three golfers have made the score — Lee Mackey in 1950, Tommy Jacobs in 1954 and Rives McBee in 1966.

Plan now to vote in the November elections — it's your chance to be heard.

Participation Pays

Are you one of the grippers? Do you gripe about the way the club is being run, the movies they show at the base theater, the goods offered — or not offered — for sale at the exchange and commissary? Do you gripe about the school system in your community, the operation or lack of recreational facilities in your town, the rising taxes or the poor roads?

If you do gripe about things such as this — or a hundred and one other possibilities — that's all right. After all, everyone has a right to his individual opinion — that's one of the reasons we're in the military, to preserve this right of every American.

But griping alone isn't enough. If you're not offering any constructive criticism or making an effort to help improve things, you're shirking part of your responsibility as a citizen.

If you don't like the way the club is being run, try attending one of the board of governors' meetings and state your opinion.

If you don't approve of the school system in your community, attend one of the meetings of the school board and air your feelings and recommendations.

Community problems can be discussed at public hearings and through the editorial pages of your local newspapers. There are countless methods by which you can make your feelings, opinions and recommendations known when you disagree — or agree — with the way something is being done.

The important thing is that you do something other than just gripe. Don't be the guy who "doesn't want to get involved" or is content to "let somebody else do it."

Members of the military can bring a wide range of knowledge and experience to their respective communities when they actively participate in community and civic affairs.

Make use of your right to present your opinions and recommendations in an orderly, logical and intelligent manner to work toward the improvement of your military and civilian community.

Participate actively and everyone will benefit. (AFPS)
