VIRGINIA AIR NATIONAL GUARD

Vol VIII, No. 9

JUNE 1969

192D IN PUNCH CARD VI

FORMER GUARDSMAN DRAFTED

On 12 May 1969, Edward W Applewhite was drafted into the U. S. Army. Applewhite, formerly assigned 192d Supply Squadron, Virginia Air National Guard was enlisted 8 July 1967 under the standard 6 year agreement. He was discharged from Virginia Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve on 15 April 1969 under the provisions of ANGR 39-10, Para 14(n) for failure to meet Military, Technical, or Academic Training requirements imposed as a condition of enlistment. Applewhite's tour will be 2 years less any active duty time he accumulated while a member of the Virginia Air National Guard.

UP-GRADE CLASSIFICATION BOARD

The Up-grade Classification Board will convene for the first time during June UTA. Individuals otherwise qualified for upgrade to 5. or 7 level are required to meet, with supervisor/trainer, this board for award. Effective date of award will be directed by the board. CBPO will schedule qualified persons to meet board.

VaANG GETS TWO NEW OFFICERS

The latest additions to the Va ANG Officer Corps are Captains Edward C. Griffith and Russell E. Jewett, who were appointed during the May Unit Training Assembly, 17 May 1969.

Captain Griffith, assigned to the 149th Tactical Fighter Squadron as a pilot, came to us from the California Air National Guard where he served as a troop carrier pilot. He had served four years in the Air National Guard, including two with California, before coming to Virginia. He also served five years on extended active duty as a pilot with the Marine Corps.

Captain Griffith was born in West Chester, Pennsylvania in Feb 1939. He graduated from Conestoga High School, Berwyn, Pennsylvania in 1957. After high school, Captain Griffith went directly (Turn to "NEW OFFICERS," page 3)

LATEST POOF ON FIELD TRAINING

The 192d Tactical Fighter Group and attached units will conduct Annual Field Training at Travis Field, Savannah Georgia, 12-26 July 1969.

Since the Eastcom Exercise has been canceled, all other units previously scheduled for Travis Field at this time have also been canceled.

All personnel have been categorized and listings will be available in each Orderly Room this UTA. You may check to see if your request to travel by P.O.C. was approved, if your request to attend Field Training at another time in order to attend summer school was approved; if you are attending Field Training at Shaw AFB; Seymour-Johnson AFB; Myrtle Beach AFB; advanced detachment, home station, etc.

For those of you who have been approved to travel by P.O.C., the reporting time at Travis Field will be 1500 hours EDT, 12 July 1969. (NOTE CHANGE).

Reporting time at Byrd Field for those traveling by Government transportation will be announced later.

"ALASKA BOUND"

On 19 and 21 June, 75 personnel from the 192d Tactical Fighter Group will depart Byrd Field heading to Eielson AFB, Alaska to participate in a week-long exercise, Punch Card VI. The troops, commanded by LtCol William A. Williams, will leave in 4 C-130 aircraft out of Langley AFB and 10 (8 mission and 2 spare) F-84F jet fighters. The men will join ground forces from the U. S. Army Alaska and support units from Alaskan Air Command to fly simulated close air support and live-fire missions at Fort Wainwright in Fairbanks, Alaska. The F-84F's will operate from Eielson AFB during daylight hours and drop live, 500-pound bombs and fire 50 caliber ammunition on a remote firing range located at Ft. Wainwright.

The F-84's will be provided aerial refueling enroute by the KC-97 Tanker aircraft of the Texas Air National Guard's 136 Air Refueling Wing located at Hensley Field near Dallas.

In making the initial announcement to the press, Lt. Gen. Robert A. Breitweiser, Commander-in-Chief Alaska said "We welcome the guardsman to the great land. We expect the training each unit will receive to be very valuable."

The Punch Card Exercise series is designed to acquaint units stationed in the lower forty-eight with operations in Alaska.

The men will return to Byrd Field 30 June 1969 in time to help get ready for Annual Field Training move to Savannah.

ECI

If you're having trouble getting EOC's and VRE's from ECI at the normal rate of time, use ECI Form 17 that you have got in your package and notify them that the ZIP/SHRED changed from 23150-1 to 23150-2 for the 192d TFG Testing Office.

ZERO DEFECTS

QUOTE OF NOTE (An AFNS Feature)

"It is clear that a goal of zero defects is purposely high, and although perfection is probably unattainable, the potential exists for great improvement in our efforts to reach a new and much higher plateau of reliability in our modern, more complex and costly weapon systems. The Zero Defects Program is the largest effort we have made to achieve this improvement -- it crosses all functional areas and recognizes all individuals as vital elements of the mission effectiveness equation." (Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. McConnell).

When a real estate broker agrees to sell your property, he generally asks you to sign a listing agreement which assures him of his commission if he finds a buyer. The agreement sets out what the broker is to do to earn his commission. You benefit from the agreement if you write into it all the protections you desire.

Some things a listing agreement can do for you: tell the broker whether you want an exclusive or nonexclusive listing; multiple listing service; limit the time in which the broker must find a buyer; set the lowest price and down payment you will accept; fix the time in which the buyer must complete his purchase and take possession.

If you want to rent your property, the broker may also ask you to sign a listing agreement.

In most states, leases such as a month-to-month tenancy need not be in writing. After the tenant moves in, with the owner's consent, the law sets out the rights and duties of each party.

For example, the landlord normally may not interfere with the tenant's possession. The landlord must defend that possession against interference by others. The tenant may be entitled to products of the land, unless the parties agree otherwise.

In turn, the tenant must pay his rent on time, take care of the place, and move out when his tenancy expires.

In ending the arrangement, each party has certain rights. If the landlord doesn't give proper notice, the tenant may remain; if the tenant doesn't give proper notice, the landlord may demand rent.

Despite the general law, both landlords and tenants find advantages in written leases under the terms of which one may do things for you that you could not easily do otherwise.

An owner may have a written agreement with terms to bind the tenant for more than one year; require the tenant to make repairs; limit the tenant's right to assign or sublet the premises.

A tenant, in a written lease, may bind the landlord for more than one year; set out any of the landlord's statements relied on in deciding to lease the property; bind the landlord to restore the premises if they are destroyed, or permit cancellation of the lease; insure notification before lease cancellation for a claimed misdeed on the tenant's part.

TRANSEC "Tip" Of The Month

The Third-Man was very active during a recent major exercise. TAC people gave him varying degrees of cooperation. One conversation between two parties indicated they composed a message over the telephone to be sent to a lower echelon. After the message was composed and mutually agreed upon, they discussed what classification it should be given. They finally settled on SECRET. As noted, the Thrid-Man received distribution automatically.

SEVEN COSTLY WORDS
 (An AFNS Editorial)

One of the biggest challenges today is overcoming seven costly words, "But we've always done it this way!"

Over and over again things are being done in the same routine way in Government, business, industry -- and the Air Force -- because few ask, "Why can't we find a new or better way? How can it be done at less cost?"

Supervisors and managers overlook potential areas for improvement and even discourage workers from suggesting new and better work methods, simply because "we've always done it this way."

SUPPORT THE SUGGESTION PROGRAM

DENNIS L. MOSELEY
 AIRMAN OF THE MONTH

Airman Dennis L. Moseley has been named the outstanding Airman of the Month of May for the 192d.

Airman Moseley enlisted in the Virginia Air National Guard in July of 1967, and was assigned to the 192d Combat Support Squadron. He is presently serving in the Security Police Section of Combat Support. Moseley attended Basic Training and Security Police School at Lackland AFB, Texas where he was awarded the 3 level. Upon his return to Byrd Field, he was placed on OJT, and made a score of 75%ile on the 5 level SKT. Moseley also received the Expert Marksman ribbon at Lackland Air Force Base.

Lt. Basil H. Evans, Security Police Officer, states, "Airman Moseley has constantly demonstrated outstanding ability and willingness to get his job done. His professionalism, attitude and personal appearance are indeed assets to the Virginia Air Guard." Evans also praised Airman Moseley for calm attitudes when undertaking difficult tasks.

The young Airman lives in Richmond, Virginia, with his wife, the former Diane Crissman. He is a 1967 graduate of Meadowbrook High School, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Moseley of Chesterfield, Virginia. Dennis works for Ukrop Supermarket in Richmond, as Assistant Grocery Manager. Moseley hopes someday to continue his education and maybe work as a law enforcement official. Hunting and football occupy Airman Moseley's leisure time, and he is looking forward to the upcoming professional football season. We congratulate Airman Dennis L. Moseley for being selected as Airman of the Month, and salute him on a job well done.

(NEW OFFICERS, cont'd from page 1) into the Navy Reserve. By October 1957 he was on active duty, first as a basic electronics trainee, immediately afterward as a fire control radar trainee, and immediately after that (Oct 58) he entered the USN Flight Training Course at Pensacola, Florida as an aviation cadet. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in April 1960.

Captain Griffith lives in Richmond with his wife Gladys and their three children, Dori, Debra and Edward, Jr. He is the Manufacturing Manager for Downingtown Paper Company in Richmond.

Captain Jewett, assigned to the 192d Combat Support Squadron as a Personnel Officer, came to us from the inactive Air Force Reserve. Previously, he had served nearly 4½ years on extended active duty as a Management Engineering Officer; most of the time as Chief of a Management Engineering Team. He entered active duty in 1964 after being commissioned as a ROTC graduate of the Arizona State University, Tempe, Arizona.

Captain Jewett was born in New York City, New York, in Jun 1940. He graduated from Jordan High School, Long Beach, California, in 1958, and from Long Beach City College in 1960. He completed the first two years of his ROTC program at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles at the same time he was attending Long Beach City College. Then, in 1960, he entered Arizona State University at Tempe, from which he graduated in 1964 with a Bachelor's Degree in Industrial Management.

Captain Jewett lives in Colonial Heights, Virginia, with his wife Delores and their two sons, Mike and Brian. He is an Industrial Engineer for the Dupont Company in Richmond.

192D TFG GOLF TOURNAMENT

A meeting will be held in the Mess Hall, Sunday, 22 June 1969, at 1600 hours for persons interested in the Golf Tournament during Annual Field Training this year. Contact Major S. B. Foulke Jr. this UTA for information.

EDITORIAL

SWIM SAFELY

If you or any of your family are non-swimmers, now is the season to waterproof yourselves.

Whether you're a swimmer or not, the lure of the water is often irresistible in summer, making summer months the peak periods for drownings. In recent years most drowning fatalities have occurred in the early months of summer, with July rating the highest, and June running a close second.

Even if you avoid entering the water this summer, because you are a poor or non-swimmer, there is a chance of meeting trouble. More than one-half of the thousands of drownings each year are labeled non-swimming fatalities — people who fell into the water from such spots as docks, bridges, shores, and boats. These accidents have contributed to making drownings the fourth leading cause of accidents.

The National Safety Council advises that each person needs to learn: How to hold or row to someone in trouble in the water, how to stay afloat with clothes on, how to swim, and how to use simple life-saving skills.

Often a simple stroke like a dog paddle will enable a floundering swimmer to reach shore. It has been estimated, that half of all drownings occurred within 20 feet of safety. That's about the distance from bumper to bumper on your car.

Many groups such as the YMCA, YWCA, Boy Scouts, and Red Cross have classes that can teach you to swim at least 20 feet. Enroll now for the swimming lessons offered by these groups and beat crowded summer classes.

Waterproof yourself now for a fun-filled, safe summer in the water. (AFPS)

Last Letter Tells Proud Soldier's Hopes

This story is reproduced in the VANGUARD as it appeared in the 101st Airborne's newspaper, "The Screaming Eagle, Camp Eagle, Vietnam.

CAMP EAGLE — A moving letter, written by a Division sergeant before his death in September, speaks for virtually every American Soldier who has risked his life in Vietnam.

"It is too bad I had to die in another country; the United States is so wonderful," wrote Sgt. Jeff Davis of Manchester, N. H. "But at least I died for a reason . . . and a good one."

Davis was killed in a firefight Sept. 6 while serving with A Co, 3rd Bn., 187th Abn. Inf. near Cu Chi. Before departing for Vietnam, he wrote the letter to his fiancée, whom he later married in Hawaii. He requested that it be opened only in the event he died here.

The letter showed that Davis, fighting with bravery and pride like every other Screaming Eagle, was aware that the commitment of the 101st in Vietnam calls upon young Americans to be both diplomats and warriors. He spoke a tribute to these men, fortified with the belief that his job and the mission of his fellow Airborne troopers will someday bring peace to the people of Vietnam.

"I may not understand this war or like it, or want to fight it, but nevertheless I had to DO, and I DID," wrote the proud American. "I died for the people of the United States."

The young sergeant served with the Screaming Eagles in combat for more than nine months after arriving in Vietnam Dec. 1, 1967. During his tour, he earned a Bronze Star with "V" Device, Bronze Star, Vietnamese Campaign Medal, Vietnamese Service Medal, Combat Infantryman's Badge and Purple Heart.

Davis saw compensation for his death in a future of freedom for his relatives, friends and others also who enjoy this wonderful country, who appreciate what they have and thank God every day for it.

"I died for the guys with long hair and protest signs," he continued, "the draft card burners, the hippies, the 'anti-everything' people who have nothing better to do. The college kids who think they shouldn't have to serve because they're too good. I died so these people could have a little longer time to try to get straightened out in life. God knows they need it."

"Yes, I died for the so-called 'younger generation,' of which I was a part, but for some unknown reason I never became an active member. I guess I was a 'square' or something with short hair, no police record, didn't drink or smoke (pot included) and volunteered for the service. I died for the parents of these kids also, God forgive them."

"I died so these members, active members of the 'younger generation,' could have the right to do what they do. To protest, have long hair, go to the college of their own choice, wear weird clothes, and run around mixed up with no direction at all."

"I died so they can protest the war I fought and died in. Without it, what would they protest? But I also died for the many thousands who died in this war and other wars before, for these same reasons . . . for the men who fought gallantly on the many battlefields of many wars to keep this country free. I guess that in order to gain freedom there must be war. I died for the United States."

A TAXING REMINDER--SAVE
(An AFNS Editorial)

Interest from Series E and H U.S. Savings Bonds are exempt from state and local income taxes, and payment of Federal tax may be deferred until the bonds are converted to cash.

Both bonds pay 4 1/2 per cent interest and are guaranteed by the U.S. Government.

Savings bonds can provide a retirement or an education plan. They incur no brokerage fees, no management expense; they are immune from market fluctuation and given maximum tax advantage.

Buying savings bonds is like purchasing stock in your company. The company in this case is the United States. Can you think of a better purchase than that?
