ARMY TRAINING DEPLOYMENTS GIVEN SUPPORT BY 192TFG

Major Basil H. Evans, Jr. makes a point to Capt Al Neergaard prior to loading one of 68 C-130 aircraft during recent Army Guard deployments.

Over One Thousand Hours Expended As Flight Line Resembles MAC Terminal

The 192TFG Logistics Office headed up by Capt Allen Neergaard and MSG John Johnson is beginning to wonder if they are assigned to a MAC terminal or a TAC Fighter outfit.

Between 22 May and 22 July approximately 2,500 men from the 1st and 2d Batallion, 162 Field Artillery, Puerto Rican Army National Guard, 82d Airborne Division from Ft Bragg, NC and the 101st Airborne Division from Ft Campbell, Ky will have staged through Byrd IAP on their way to and from training assignments at Ft Pickett and Ft AP Hill.

The 192TFG supported these units not only with fire protection, maintenance, command post, and POL, but also TSG Pugh and his transportation unit which provided support in an outstanding manner by on and off loading approximately 100,000 lbs of palletized cargo and 21 aircraft loads of rolling

These units were transported aboard 68 C-130 aircraft and Air National Guard and active duty units from Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, Carolina, Ohio, Texas, Tennessee, West Virginia, Delaware and Mississippi.

The Puerto Rican Army National Guard was engaged in their two week Annual Field Training and the two Airborne Divisions were in direct support of training for various Army National Guard Units participating in their AFT.

Maj Basil Evans, the Group Executive Officer, praised the various units involved and said he felt that this was an outstanding effort by all the personnel involved, especially since most of the arrivals and departures were after normal duty hours or on normal off days.

Retirement Credit

For Reservists, retirement credit is earned on a point basis, sometimes called days.

A point, or day, is earned for each drill attended and for each day of At least 50 points must be earned each year or the year is active duty. not considered satisfactory for retirement purposes. (Fifteen points are given just for being a Reservist.)

Fifty points are given for each year of federal service other than active duty before July 1, 1949.

The following figures show monthly retirement pay for a typical retir-

The first pay column shows a Reservist with five years of active duty and 15 years of Reserve duty. The second shows five years of active duty and 25 years of Reserve duty.

0-6	$499.08	$719.18
0-5	451.45	586.76
0-4	290.76	490.71
W-4	324.47	453.80
E-9	268.05	388.77
E-7	207.31	312.41
E-6	182.36	229.00
E-5	154.79	194.31

The first pay column shows 20 years of Reserve duty and the second shows 25 years of Reserve duty.

0-6	$256.05	$338.44
0-5	231.61	1
0-4	200.48	299.47
W-4	166.45	250.45
E-9	137.52	214.92
E-7	106.35	180.87
E-6		141.82
E-5	93.56	116.88
L-3	79.41	99 21

Figures are not shown for officers below the rank of 0-4 or enlisted men below the grade of E-5 since (after the 20 years of service required for retirement pay) most Reserve officers will have attained 0-4 and most enlisted men will have reached E-5 or higher.

Computations are based on each individual having earned 75 points per (60 points for belonging to the Reserve and for training center attendance plus 15 points for attendance at 15 days summer field training.)

OPSEC

War and PEACE

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF SURPRISE AND SECURITY IS ESSENTIAL MILITARY EFFECTIVENESS IN BOTH TACTICAL AND STRATEGIC OPERATIONS AND REQUIRES THE CONTINUOUS CONCEALMENT OF CAPABILITIES AND INTENTIONS. OPSEC IS THE PRINCIPAL MEANS OF ACHIEVING THAT CONCEALMENT. ALL COMMANDERS MUST THEREFORE INSURE CONSIDERATION OF OPSEC IN EVERY PHASE OF THEIR OPERATIONS. OPSEC IS A COMMAND RESPONSIBILITY. (JCS PUB 18)

NOT SO FAST

The need for security in combat operations is apparent because something real is going on, something serious---things that can be seen, heard, and felt. In a peacetime environment however, it is more difficult to relate the seriousness of OPSEC to routine duties---the threat is not too apparent and things seem to be going well.

-  No aircraft are being shot down because someone compromised the operation over insecure communications.
-  No bombs are falling on empty targets because of our stereotyped and predictable procedures.
-  None of our aircraft are being jumped by MIGs or downed by SAMs because the type mission, route, and times can be predicted through standard operating procedures, call signs, and frequency use.
-  None of our patrols are being ambushed because they report their position and destination in the clear.
-  And we are not bombing friendly targets because someone thought it inconvenient to demand an authentication from the guy who called in the air strike request.

All Guardsmen are requested to attend and support your UNIT and the BRAVES.

Those things don't actually hurt us in peacetime---not in a tangible sense. But what if we take these same bad habits (stereotyped procedures, non-use of codes/authenticators, improper communications procedures, etc., etc., etc.) into actual combat situations? Those necessary elements of surprise and security will be down the proverbial "tube."

OPSEC MUST BE CONTINUOUS AND A PART OF OPERATIONAL PLANNING DURING PEACE AS WELL AS WAR. DURING PEACE-TIME, OPSEC PRINCIPLES MUST BECOME SECOND NATURE IN OUR ROUTINE MILITARY AFFAIRS, WE DO IN COMBAT AS WE PRACTICE DURING PEACE.

AUGUST OPSEC UPDATE: SECRET RECIPE

When A Reporter Calls, What Should You Do?

HQ TAC--Suppose you are in any job except an information assignment. A reporter calls you seeking information about some aspect of your work or anything else about the Air Force. How do you respone? The April 20 issue of TIG Brief provided the answer to that question.

You're not an information officer, but you know that Department of Defense and Air Force policy is to promptly provide as much factual information to the American public as possible.

as possible.
You also know that your unit's only official spokesperson is the commander or the commander's designated representative, usually the information officer. And among the IO's duties is making sure all areas news media know how to reach an IO representative 24 hours a day.

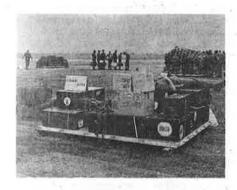

So if you get a call from a reporter, chances are the reporter is too new to know the channels, or hot after an unguarded quote from you on some sort of problem. Bither way, your best action is to courteously refer the reporter to your information officer, and then follow through with a report to the information shop.

If the information representative can't be reached, the reporter should be referred to the command post, which always can locate the IO.

Legally, you can talk to any news media representative any time you However, there are some want. qualifications and considerations. Your personal opinion is your own, and you are entitled to share it with anyone. Nevertheless, chances are excellent that your "personal" opinion will be viewed as an official Air Force position by news people and the public, regardless of any disclaimer you may state. Personally or officially, you cannot divulge classified information to anyone lacking proper clearance and need to know. And you also should be clear about the Air Force policy covering the subject the reporter has asked about.

Getting the IO involved as soon as possible is the best way to ensure the public receives the complete, coordinated, official information it is entitled to. Details on release of information are outlined in AFR 190-12, "Release of Unclassified Information to the Public," and AFR 190-13, "Review and Clearance of Department of the Air Force Information."

Recruiters Keeping Guard Up

Virginia's front line Air Guard recruiters have managed to keep the 192d Tactical Fighter Group and the Headquarters, Virginia Air Guard at 100% overall strength. As of June 30th unit strength was 102% for enlisted personnel and 91% for officers. Lead Recruiter TSgt Charlie Udriet said, "We do the best we can with the time we have, but everyone in the unit can make our job easier by referring good people to us." Udriet said he is amazed by the number of referrals the unit gets from people already on board who meet friends at work or in the neighborhood. According to Udriet, "While the Marines may be 'looking for a few good men', we in the Virginia Air Guard are looking for all good people."

Annual Field Training-80

The National Guard Bureau has requested the 192TFG to submit its preference for the 1980 Annual Field Training Site. Choices for AFT, scheduled tentatively for end of March - first part of April, are Savannah, Ga. and Gulfport, Miss. Col Claude F. Heath said that members may express their desire through the squadron orderly rooms or first sergeants.

These results, along with mission compatibility, will be evaluated before location for AFT is final-
